Where to go, what to do and who to see in Time Out's essential guide to the week ahead.

Art

Cui Jie, Li Shurui, Zhang Jungang
and Li Jie

Leo Xu Projects, until Sunday 5 February

Art editor Sam Gaskin says: This is the last week to catch this group show at Leo Xu Projects. Cui Jie examines the human side of architecture in paintings and photographs through composite landscapes inspired by Orson Welles films. Li Shurui looks at urban lighting, and Zhang and Li blur documentary with staged elements in their photo essays celebrating youth and love. Read more.

Cui Jie examines the human side of architecture in this series of paintings and photographs inspired by Orson Welles films. One image looks like an elegant bucket of paint descending a staircase. Li Shurui looks at urban lighting, and Zhang and Li blur documentary with staged elements in photo essays celebrating youth and love.
