Engaged with China's rapidly transforming urban landscape, Cui's paintings nod to everything from sci-fi to Soviet communism to city planning. Incorporating futuristic elements like spiral slides and sky bridges, her architectural paintings and sculptures offer a timely commentary on Chinese urbanism. This year alone, Cui was included in the group exhibition "Hack Space" at K11 Hong Kong, curated by Hans Ulrich Obrist and Amira Gad; had a solo show at Dublin gallery mother's tankstation limited; and is currently taking part in CASS Sculpture Foundation's "A Beautiful Disorder." Come December, she'll mount a solo booth at Art Basel in Miami Beach with Shanghai's Leo Xu Projects.
